Being connected to current affairs

- It's very important to stay well informed about what is happening in society... Watch the news, read newspapers, read books, watch documentaries, listen to podcasts. The themes we work around are identity, media, inequalities, globalisation, crime, so any news story or documentary on these issues is relevant. If you don't generally have a habit of paying attention to things like this, you need to start making this a habit. To do this, you can download an app for any of the major news organisations or newspapers of your choice. These are usually free for young people, especially on Tik Tok and Snapchat.
- Every week, one student is tasked with searching a relevant news story and then we discuss it in class
- Podcasts – listen to any podcasts about identity, media, inequalities, globalisation, digital world, crime. (Likewise TV documentaries)

Tasks

(NB 1 I have checked all the hyperlinks, but if one does not work for you, search it by the title and see if you can find it that way)

(NB 2 – for resources on BBC or Channel 4 you may need to set up a free account or ask a family member if you already have one)

Introduction

1. Watch this clip and listen to the 2x 7 minute podcast

- BBC World News: Identity
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sXkMUWEKKgA> – what makes you who you are
BBC Radio 4 - AntiSocial, What is "minority stress theory"?
BBC Radio 4 - AntiSocial, Why are statues such flashpoints in the culture wars?

2. Choose 2 of the identities

Use the links below, and any other sources of information that you want to, finding out a little bit about each of the identities.

You should spend roughly 1 hour per identity, but you might spend more or less depending on the length of the clip. (Check with your parents whether they have a BBC I-player account. These are FREE –you just need to set up an account with an email)

3. Complete the table below, summarising some information related to each clip.

The table can be as big as you need it to be, so don't be limited by the starting size. It can spread over a number of pages.

4. Submit your completed table
